THE REBELS DRIVEN TO THE RIVER

Louisville, Wednesday, April 1, 1863. An official Somerset telegram says Gen. Gilmore's forces attacked the Rebels, under Pegram, in strong position, near Somerset, yesterday, fought them five or six hours, and whipped them badly, driving them toward the river. The Rebels outnumbered us two to one. Our loss does not exceed 30. The Rebel loss is not stated.

The Return of Gen. Sherman's Expedition to Young's Point-The Resistance and Obstructions Met With in Deer and Rolling Forks.

PRILIDRIPHIA, Wednesday, April 1, 1863.

A special dispatch to The Bulletin says: New Vicksburg and its vicinity has an unfavor able aspect. Dispatches received here state that the expedition through Steele's and Black Bayous into the Upper Yazoo is a failure. Admiral Porter succeeded in getting through both bayous with the gunboats, and proceeded 25 or 30 miles further m Deer and Rolling Forks, when he encountered small force of Rebels, who so annoyed him with charpehooters and obstructions in the channel, that further progress was impossible without co-operation of the infantry, which came up next day.

The enemy had, in the mean time, put trees int the stream, making it impassable. They annoyed the gunboats otherwise, and seemed to be gathering in considerable force. Reduforcements of infantry were marched to their assistance on Monday, and coming up with the beleaguered boats, found the latter hemmed in completely by obstructions in front and rear. Skirmishing continued all day, when the Robels being reenforced, the gunboats were withdrawn, and commenced to retreat, the whole force having embarked on transports near the head of Black Bayon for their return to Young's Point. Parties from Chicago and the many railroad towns north are reshipping their goods home. Deserters in great numbers are returning to the army, and they are improving every hour to get to their regiments by the 1st of April. The order on this subject twas an exceeding wise one. Let no one look for any conflict in the North with the military or civil authorities with reference to the war, the proclamation or anything else.

There is no doubt but two of Farragut's first class war ships are between Vicksburg and Port Hudson. These effectually keep all supplies from the Rebels from the West, and Texas in particular.
